PRESCOTT KILLING

Louis Andre Killed by Earl Sparks—Trouble Over Game of Cards the Cause.

As the result of a quarrel over the payment of a bet at fero, Earl Sparks Monday night shot and killed Louis Andre. The affair took place in front of the Vogue liquor store in the Palace hotel block at 10:30 o'clock in a blinding storm of falling snow. Sparks at once surrendered himself and was locked up.

Sparks, who came to Prescott but a month ago from Nogales, has for sometime been dealing a game of fero in the Wellington saloon. He is a man of small stature, quiet and inoffensive. One of his players in the early evening was Andre, a Frenchman, a man about 39 year of age and of powerful physique. He was a hangeron around the redlight district. Following an altercation over the payment of a bet Andre had made of a case card Andre struck a blow Sparks over the eye, cutting a gash several inches in length. Andre then left the table, cashed his checks at the bar and quit the saloon.

Sparks was soon relieved as dealer and after washing the wound he had received, he also left the saloon, being generally understood that the affair was ended. About half a block from the saloon Sparks met Andre and some further words ensued when Sparks drew his gun and fired. The shot from a forty-five calibre revolver took effect in the center of Andre's forehead, passing out the back of the head. He lived but a few moments. Sparks walked back to the Wellington saloon and gave himself up to Frank Burns, a deputy sheriff who was in the saloon.

At the scene of the shooting a large crowd soon gathered. The white carpet of snow gathered showed crimson stains for nearly thirty feet around where the body of Andre lay. A coroner's jury viewed the remains and adjourned to meet Wednesday. It is generally thought here that Sparks will be exonerated.
